

Mohammed Alsawti has recently got his Master dissertation in computing at University of Science and Technology, and he is taking an Assistant Teacher position at University of Science and Technology in Sana'a, Yemen. His research focuses on security policies and Data Science. He is a keen, adaptive, and well-organized professional with innovation and research. He is passionate about collaborating with experts to solve new problems and develop new skills.

